Souvanna Named As Laos Chief

HIN HEUP, Laos (AP) — The three factions of Laos wrangled today over a Cabinet for neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, named premier in an agreement reducing the prospect of new fighting in the jungle kingdom.

Souvanna Phouma, 60, a Paris-educated former premier backed by the Soviet bloc, personally announced the agreement reached Sunday by himself, pro-Western Premier Prince Boun Oum and Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the pro-Red Pathet Lao.

Stand Beside Souvanna

The other two princes stood beside Souvanna during the announcement, made at the negotiations tent at this village on the cease-fire line 50 miles north of Vientiane, administrative capital of Laos.

Agreement on Souvanna had long been expected. But it represented a major concession by Boun Oum's U.S.-backed regime, which had been demanding that King Savang Vatthana be presented a list of several candidates for the premiership of the coalition government. The Pathet Lao in turn withdrew its demand that the king be handed a full cabinet slate and left the division of seats to the hard bargaining still ahead.

Souvanna Phouma commissioned the other two princes to call on the king today at Luang Prabang, the royal capital, and to seek a Tuesday audience for him. Royal approval of his designation as premier is considered a certainty.

Claim Accord Reached

The neutralists and the Pathet Lao claimed agreement had been reached for Souvanna's group to get eight Cabinet posts and supporters of Boun Oum and Souphanouvong four each. However, a spokesman for Boun Oum said the Vientiane government wants the posts divided among leftists, rightists and neutralists, not among the personal followings of the princes. The pro-Western faction considers Souvanna Phouma leftist rather than truly neutral.

Labor Heads Ponder Rival Truck Unit

NEW YORK (AP) — Organized labor leaders open a week-long meeting today to decide whether to take back James R. Hoffa's expelled Teamsters Union or start a rival truck drivers unit.

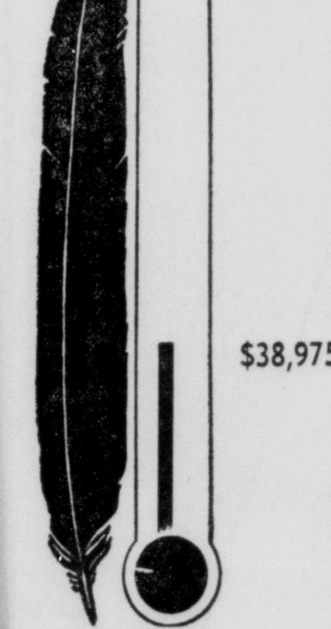

It appeared likely that the AFL-CIO would continue its four-year exile of Hoffa's organization on corruption charges.

A number of AFL-CIO unions have been actively urging readmission of the Teamsters. They

The Salem United Fund Drive stood at $38,975 this morning, still shy of the half-way mark of the $81,767 goal.

With only four days of the campaign remaining, Co-Chairmen James T. Schaeffer and Horace K. Schwartz have urged workers on the 12 teams to step up their efforts.

Secretary Byron Maxson says reports from team captains are coming in slowly. Report meetings are held at 9 every morning at the Red Cross Office on E. 2nd St. Team captains are urged to report at these meetings.

Bow To Push Own Tariff Bill

Raps Restrictions On U. S. Products

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. foreign trade policy and its effect on investors and workers in this county will be one of the most controversial issues of the 1962 session of Congress, Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, predicted today.

The Canton representative, who said he has opposed the 30-year-old Trade Agreements Act since his first speech in the House 11 years ago, served notice that he intends to fight for adoption of his own bill to give Congress firmer control of trade relations and tariffs.

Under the Trade Agreements Act, due to expire next June 30, U.S. tariffs have become among the lowest in the world but this country has "not received reciprocal or even fair treatment at the hands of other nations," Bow said in a letter to constituents.

"Instead, quotas, duties and embargoes" hamper U.S. products on foreign markets, he said.

He said his proposed Foreign Trade Policy Act would restore primary trade and tariff responsibility to the U.S. Tariff Commission—"an agency of Congress."

Bow said his bill would place tariff policy "on a business rather than political basis," and would provide an industry recourse to the tariff commission, the Congress and the courts if it felt it were being injured.

Bow said his proposal also "takes into account the fact that other nations, in such developments as the European Common Market, are presenting new international trade problems which the present law was not designed to meet."

He contended he has been borne out in his predictions that "post-war reconstruction of European and Japanese industry would confront American workers and American industry with destructive competition encouraged by our almost non-existent tariff structure."

The tariff issue, Bow said, "is meaningful for every man who works in steel, clay, automobile, tool, toy, textile or machine industries, and equally so to every investor."

Pickets Bar Ford Personnel

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union today massed picket lines at Ford Motor Co. administrative offices in an attempt to bar salaried personnel from reporting for work.

Ford reported picket lines at its Otunda building near the Rouge plant and at the company's old administrative office building. It was the first union interference with salaried worker schedules since the strike started.

No Incident Reported

No incidents were reported at either site. It was not immediately known how effective the picket lines were in preventing salaried personnel from reporting.

The UAW, however, was allowing selected maintenance personnel, bearing cards issued by Local 600, through the lines.

The stepped up picket lines activity came as the union and Ford sought agreement on local plant issues.

Settlement of local plant issues between the union and the auto manufacturers is becoming increasingly tougher.

This became more obvious today as the nationwide Ford Motor Company strike moved into its seventh day.

The Ford strike followed a two-week walkout by UAW workers at General Motors Corp. plants last month over local issues.

Surprise Development

A surprise development was tossed into the UAW frying pan Sunday night when Local 72 of Kenosha, Wis. rejected the historic profit-sharing plan worked out earlier with American Motors Corp.

Local 72's move took even the UAW's top brass by surprise.

Norman Mathews, UAW vice president and director of the union's AMC department, said the profit-sharing plan was accepted in generally favorable terms by the UAW's four other AMC locals. Local 72 was the last to vote on the proposal.

Mathews said he couldn't speculate on how the local's action

Tunisia Still Pushes Slim For U.N. Post

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Tunisia is still pushing native son Mongi Slim for interim secretary-general of the United Nations even though Burma's U Thant lately has been mentioned as most likely to get the job.

Both the United States and the Soviet Union reportedly are willing to accept U Thant, Burma's ambassador to the U.N., as a temporary successor to Dag Hammarskjöld. But Asian-African sources said the Burmese would take the job only if the two big powers could agree on all aspects of the arrangement and both would vote for him.

They said Slim, president of the current General Assembly, would take the job even if the Soviets were so cool to him as to abstain from voting. They said he would not take it if the Soviets voted against him.

Slim and Frederick H. Boland of Ireland, president of the last assembly, are both acceptable to the United States to serve out Hammarskjöld's term expiring in April 1963. Boland has said several times he would not take the job, but some delegates believe he could be persuaded. Many doubt the Soviets would approve him.

Soviet delegates have told some colleagues they oppose Slim. But they apparently have not told the Tunisians. The Asian-African sources said that spoke of Slim's candidacy said the Tunisians were upset at reports that the Soviet Union was against giving Slim the U.N. post because they feel neither he nor Tunisia is neutral.

Although U Thant reportedly is acceptable to both the United States and the Soviet Union, the big powers are divided on how many deputies he would have and whether he would be instructed to seek their agreement to his decisions.

8 Injured In Road Mishaps Over Weekend

3 Elderly Women Have Narrow Escape South of Canfield

Eight persons were injured in traffic mishaps on area highways over the weekend.

Three elderly women were hurt when their auto collided with a truck hauling new cars at the junction of Rt. 14 and the Western Reserve Rd., south of Canfield, at 3:15 p.m. Sunday.

Treated at South Side Hospital in Youngstown were:

Nettie Ancik, 67, of McDonald, abrasions of knee and foot.

Naida Harina, 70, of RD 1, Mineral Ridge, possible fractures of the spine and ribs and a laceration of the cheek.

Anastasia Michnewich, 71, of Warren, concussion, lacerations of the face and left hand and rib injuries.

The State Highway Patrol said the McDonald woman was driving the car east on Western Reserve Rd. Witnesses said she stopped at the intersection, then pulled out into the path of the truck which was traveling south on Rt. 14.

Truck Driver Praised

The Patrol credited the driver of the truck, Fred Mursu, 31, of Waterford, Mich., with handling his vehicle in a manner which probably prevented a more violent crash.

Mursu jackknifed his truck which then skidded into the car. Mursu escaped injury.

Traffic was tied up on Rt. 14 for some time before the truck could be removed from the highway. Both vehicles were damaged considerably but the new cars being hauled by the truck were not damaged.

Betty J. Wagoner, 28, of RD 1, Columbiana, was treated at South Side Hospital for a laceration of the chin received when her car overturned on the New Buffalo Rd., southeast of Canfield, at 9:45 a.m. Sunday.

The Patrol said she had just turned onto the New Buffalo Rd. when she apparently blacked out and lost control of the car.

Josephine Rance, 25, of 303 Columbiana St., Leetonia, and Rita Rose, 20, of East Rochester, received minor injuries when their car went out of control and struck an embankment on Rt. 172, east of New Garden, at 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

Josephine Rance, the driver, suffered abrasions of the left arm and back. Rita Rose received abrasions of the right leg. Both were treated at Salem Central Clinic and released.

According to the Patrol, the

Your United Fund Agencies:

Scouting Helps Boys Become Good Citizens

Columbiana Council, Boy Scouts of America, is one of the 12 "red feather" agencies which will receive a portion of the funds collected in the Salem United Fund campaign now under way.

No one has ever been able to put a dollar and cents tag on the value of Scouting, mainly because of the uniqueness of the product involved — a boy.

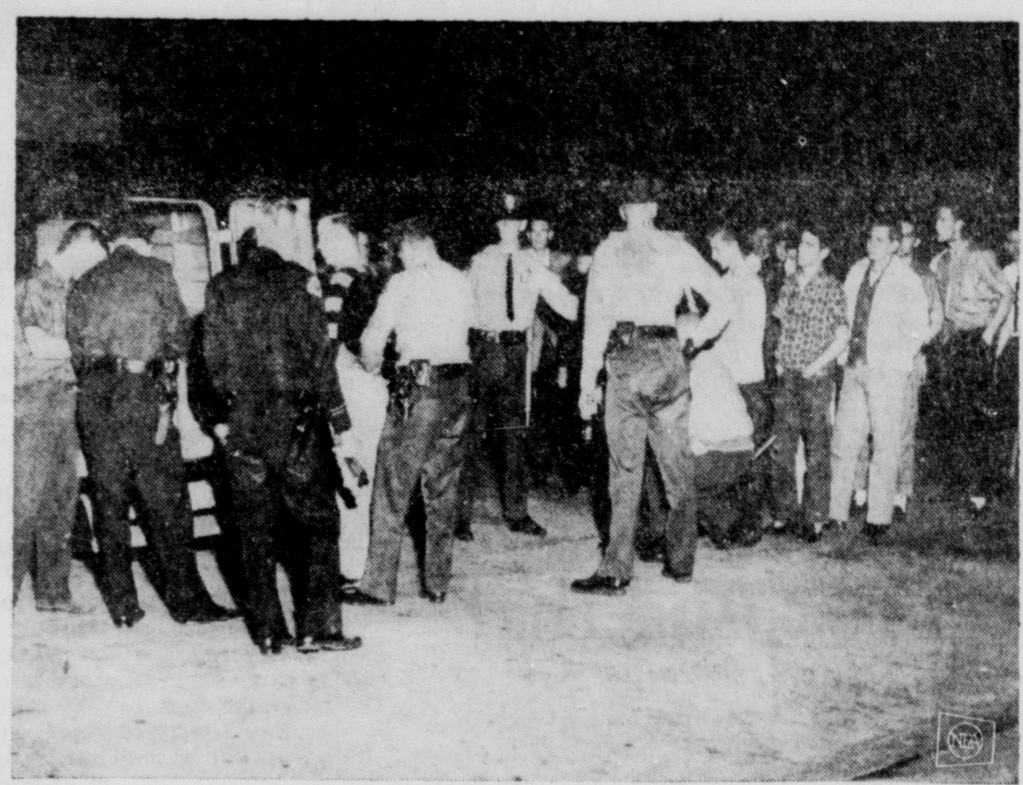

A boy at various times has been described as:

Nature's answer to the false belief that there is no such thing as perpetual motion.

A growing animal of superlative promise who can swim like a fish, run like a deer, climb like a squirrel, balk like a mule, bellow like a bull, eat like a pig, or act like a jackass—depending upon climatic conditions.

Over Safe Limit, Scientist Says

Warning Is Issued On Fallout Danger

WASHINGTON (AP)—Physicist Ralph E. Lapp, who helped in development of the atom bomb, says it's his opinion that fallout from the Soviet Union's nuclear tests has exceeded the "safe annual limit."

The Soviets fired their 19th atmospheric explosion Sunday in their current test series.

Lapp was interviewed on a recorded radio program—ABC—As We See It—Sunday.

"They have, according to the latest count, sent up over 10 megatons of weapons. I don't know precisely how much of this would be dirty, but this, in my opinion, exceeds the safe level that a number of scientists—some of them from the Atomic Energy Commission—agreed upon as a safe level back in 1957 when we didn't know about the different kind of fallout from Russian tests," Lapp said.

"It turns out that Russian tests dump their debris back to the earth sooner than the American tests in the Pacific. And, therefore, we find out on the actual base of measurements that you get 10 times as much radiation dose from these arctic tests in Russia as you do from American tests in the Pacific."

"Therefore, the safe annual limit for Russian testing I would put closer to the value of 3 megatons per year than I would the old 1957 value of 10 megatons per year."

A megaton is the equivalent of the energy released by a million tons of TNT.

The Atomic Energy Commission

in announcing the Soviet Union's 19th nuclear detonation, said the blast was in the atmosphere and was in "the low yield range."

The AEC has defined low range as equivalent to about 20,000 tons of TNT.

Mayor to Ask Fund to Install 'Walk' Signals

Mayor Dean B. Cranmer announced today that he will ask City Council to appropriate funds to install "walk" and "wait" signs for pedestrians at the intersection of State St. and Lincoln Ave.

The mayor said he would present his proposal to the legislators when they meet as a "committee of the whole" Tuesday evening at City Hall.

"If Council approves, we can go ahead and install a safety factor which is badly needed at this intersection," the mayor stated.

The city engineering department has estimated the total cost for the fabrication and erection of overhead sign and signal supports, including cost of signs and signals, at $3,664.26.

This estimate does not include control boxes for signals. Mayor Cranmer said the city already has this equipment.

Cranmer said that money for this project could be appropriated from the income tax capital improvement fund.

The mayor also reported that directional signs on N. Lincoln Ave. at Sugartree Alley and at South Alley were put up Thursday. These signs are designed to direct traffic into the proper lanes.

4 Children Killed In Warren Blaze

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Four children died in a fire at a two-story frame home of the Kenneth Sours family on Niles Road today.

The parents both escaped, along with one son, Paul. The fire was discovered on the second floor shortly before 9 a. m. One other child, a 10-year-old girl named Bobbie, had left for school.

The victims were tentatively identified as Peter, 2½, a twin brother of Paul; Susan, 4½; Kenneth Jr., 6, and Christopher, just over a year old.

All the children were in a single bedroom. The father said he was awakened by smoke, but flames drove him back when he attempted to enter the bedroom.

Doctor Faces Poison Charge

Accused of Trying To Murder Wife

PORT ORCHARD, Wash. (AP) —Dr. Robert E. Boehme, 41, accused of injecting poison into his wife's arm, was to be arraigned today on a charge of first-degree assault with intent to kill.

His wife, Dorothy, 34, said she would leave her hospital bed to be at his side.

Boehme was freed on $25,000 bond after his arrest Saturday. An attractive nurse, Mary Boehme, 28, Annapolis, Wash., was arrested as a material witness, and released on $5,000 bond.

Mrs. Boehme was married to the doctor's brother, Jack, an Oregon State University pharmacy student, for about three years. They were divorced in 1959.

Prosecutor Gordon Walgren said Dr. Boehme is accused of injecting poison into his wife's arm with a blood-sampling syringe Sept. 20.

Calls Charge Preposterous

Dorothy Boehme called the charge "preposterous."

The doctor said his wife had been a diabetic for about 20 years and recently suffered from hepatitis, an inflammation of the liver.

"I love my wife," he said. "To say that I would try to destroy her is fantastic."

The couple has two sons, aged 8 and 10.

The involved case took another twist when the prosecutor said he

Police Say Students Died of Poisoning

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Police Chief W. D. Blake says the cyanide poisoning deaths of two University of North Carolina students found dead in their room were "either double murder, a suicide pact or murder-suicide."

Police are continuing their investigation, while waiting for an analysis report on the contents of two milkshake cups found in the room shared by James Michael Barham, 20, of Burlington, and William Harrison Johnson Jr., 24, of Statesville.

Their bodies were discovered Friday morning after they failed to report for self-help jobs in the dining hall.

An autopsy report Saturday said the deaths resulted from cyanide poison. A six-man coroner's jury received the report.

Chief Blake said, "If we can locate the source of the poison, I believe we'll be a long way in clearing up the mystery."

Blake quoted several students as saying they saw Barham in convulsions in a rest room the night before he died. The students, Blake said, related that they offered to call a doctor, but that Johnson did not appear to be greatly concerned about his roommate's condition.

People Back Government, Mayor Declares

Red Guards Nab 2 W. Berliners In Phony Escape Trick

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt said today the American people are solidly backing their government's determination to keep West Berlin free.

Reporting on his two-day visit to New York, Brandt emphasized that "rarely has the U.S. government committed itself so irrevocably than on the issue of freedom of West Berlin."

Americans are determined to defend West Berlin because they know that Berlin isn't the only issue at stake, he told a news conference. He said Americans as a whole—the men in the street he met—are solidly behind the U.S. government's determined stand on Berlin.

While in New York to receive a Freedom House award, Brandt also talked with President Kennedy on the telephone. He refused to give details of their conversation, saying they had an exchange of thoughts and the President congratulated him on the speech he delivered when he received the award.

Brandt was critical of the many voices now expressing views on Berlin and Germany.

"The trend to discuss in public all the facets of the Berlin and German situation is, I think, not in the interest of the West," he said.

The disclosure of possible Western concessions in Berlin weakens the Western position at the conference table with the Soviets, the mayor declared.

Fire on W. Berliners

Communist border police showed fresh belligerence Sunday night by firing on four West Berliners after feigning an escape attempt. Two West Berliners were believed captured in the phony maneuver; the other two escaped unhurt.

The two who got away said they were lured to the barbed wire barricade in a wooded area of the American sector by Red guards who gave the impression they wanted to flee to the West. When the West Berliners tried to open a gap in the fence, the guards opened fire.

Seeking to quiet press criticism of the replacement of U.S. combat troops along the East Berlin wall by military policemen, the U.S. command in Berlin said the police were "experienced specialists" in border duty replacing younger and relatively less experienced combat troops.

"Our combat troops are always on the alert," a U.S. spokesman said. "If necessary they can be brought to any point of the border within a few minutes."

Two visiting U.S. senators had reassuring words for the West Berliners.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., told them West Berlin would emerge from the present crisis with its freedom "not only guaranteed but strengthened."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said U.S. policy remained "to honor to the letter our commitments on the security and freedom of Berlin, on the non-recognition of the East German regime, and on not making the Bonn government deal with the regime."

Many Men, Planes to Take Part In Operation Shield Saturday

Our Air Defense Will Test Its Muscle

By TOM NOLAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON — About 125,000 Americans will feel the first pinch of a missileless mock war on Saturday.

In a maneuver that has been dubbed "Operation Sky Shield II," North America's air defenses will be tested against a sham atomic attack by long-range bombers.

All civilian aircraft will be grounded for 12 hours during this exercise, beginning at 1 p.m. (EDT). And the 125,000 airline passengers who would normally fly that day will have to book flights earlier or later, according to the Air Transport Association. Only participating military aircraft will be permitted to take off until 1 a.m. (EDT), Sunday, Oct. 15.

Purpose of the exercise is to provide operational training for the entire North American Air Defense System (NORAD).

Sky Shield will begin when a force of Strategic Air Command (SAC) B-47's and B-52's, supported by a small number of British bombers, simulates an attack on the United States.

NORAD FIGHTER squadrons of U.S. and Royal Canadian Air Force F-102, F-106 and F-89 jets will make an estimated 6,000 sorties in defense. Neither side will use missiles or live ammunition.

From headquarters in Colorado Springs, Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, NORAD commander, will coordinate defensive activities.

Army air defense units under Lt. Gen. Robert J. Wood, commander of U.S. Army Air Defense Command, will also participate in the action.

Some 150,000 military personnel and civilians will have active parts in the exercise. Another 100,000, including air rescue teams and maintenance men, will play supporting roles.

Army National Guardsmen manning 15 Nike-Ajax missile bases in the northeastern U.S. will be on the alert, although missiles will be fired in theory only.

Thirty Air National Guard interceptor squadrons along the northern and southern perimeters of the country are part of the NORAD command.

NAVY AIRBORNE Early Warning Squadrons of WV-2 Super Constellation and Navy picket ships, which together form the outer warning line in the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, will be tested in the alert.

WV-2's, long-range radar planes with large fuel reserves, patrol the northern limits of the oceans. Further south, the picket ships, destroyer escorts carrying full radar equipment, take over.

Other radar defenses involved in the operation include Canadian "Pine Tree" stations along the U.S. border, the Mid-Canadian line, and DEW Line (Distant Early Warning) units.

CIVIL DEFENSE TEAMS will not be tested during the exercise. All of the continent north of Mexico and adjacent coastal waters will be blanketed by the grounding order handed down by Federal Aviation Agency "to assure air safety."

This arbitrary boundary does not rule out simulated attacks from the south, according to Air Force officials. Aircraft Control and Warning bases along the Gulf coast are alerted to the maneuver.

All the U.S. scheduled domestic and international air carrier fleet, about 1,880 aircraft, will remain on the ground during the exercise, in addition to more than 70,000 general aviation planes. Also grounded will be the North American operation of all foreign air carriers.

THIS CONFORMS to the Air Force's SCATER (Security Control of Air Traffic) plan which, in an emergency attack, would force all civilian and nonessential military planes to land at the nearest field to clear the air for combat.

FAA Administrator N. E. Halaby points out that the Sky Shield grounding is necessary to give complete freedom of movement, at all altitudes, in both ascending and descending patterns, to NORAD and SAC planes.

Halaby also notes that the attacking forces will attempt to jam all NORAD radar, FAA air traffic control radar, and other electronic guidance equipment. Thus, civilian planes would be without necessary guidance and control.

Other FAA officials add that the possibility of a real enemy attack during the operation cannot be ruled out. SAC forces in the U.S. will be on the alert for any unauthorized planes in the air during the 12-hour period. NORAD defenders are aware of the location of the prescribed simulated attack.

FAA POINTS OUT that last year's "Sky Shield I" received exceptional public understanding and was accomplished with a minimum of inconvenience.

"Sky Shield I," however, took place in the early hours of a Sunday morning and lasted only six hours. This year the exercise lasts twice as long and hits airlines in Five baked grasshoppers, 225 calories. Or a small serving of hippopotamus milk, 80 calories. All these foods are chockfull of vitamins, and none is habit-forming.

Historical oddity: The only U.S. President who composed his own epitaph omitted mention of his White House tenure. He wrote: "Here was buried Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of American Independence, of the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom, and father of the University of Virginia."

This And That

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The common cold, which costs industry $5 billion a year, is still one of mankind's greatest medical mysteries. It is responsible for 30 per cent of all our missed days from work.

Hippocrates, the father of medicine, thought the common cold started in the brain. Some scientists today deny there even is such a disease. Others hold it is caused by from one to 50 different viruses.

But most doctors say: "There is no known cure for the common cold except rest and time. Most victims will agree."

Prosperity note: The more we earn, the more we owe. Americans today owe more than $196 billion on the installment plan.

A Tibetan school child never gets spanked for sticking out his tongue at teacher. In Tibet that's the way you show respect for a superior. Try it with your boss—

Highway sign: "Danger: To touch these wires means instantaneous death. Anyone caught doing so will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

Literary note: More books have been written about the American Civil War than about any other subject except religion.

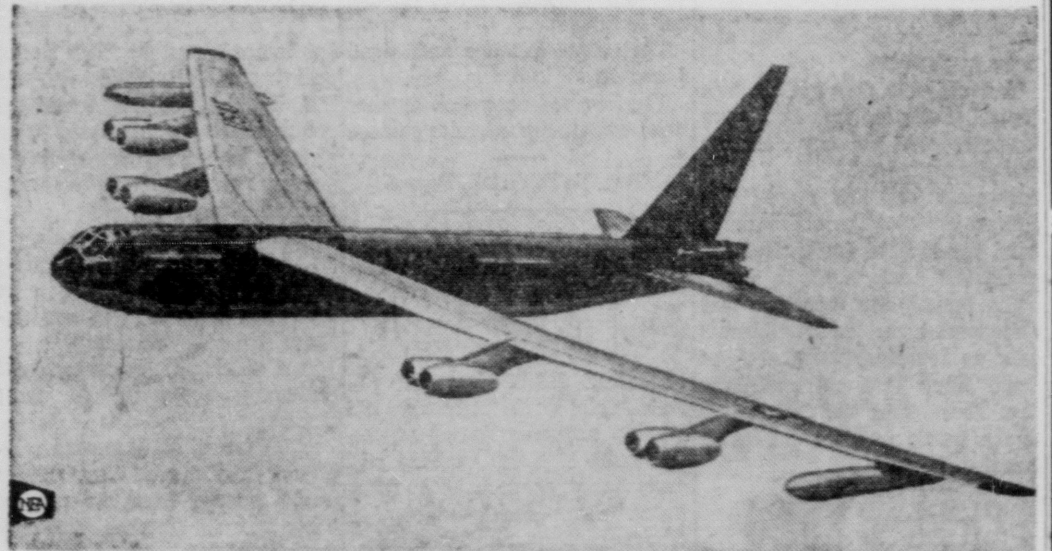

Our quotable notables: "The United States never lost a war or won a conference"—Will Rogers.

Machine age on the farm: In 1880 it took the labor of eight farmers to feed and clothe 10 families—their own and two others. Today a mere 12 per cent of our working population (instead of 80 per cent) are engaged in agriculture. A dozen men now raise more than enough to provide for 100 people.

Use Color, Imagination In Construction of Mud Room

The mud room can be an attractive area of the house rather than a gloomy little damp spot.

An entranceway from garage or basement usually is the mud area. These pass-throughs are ideal places for color and imagination.

Linoleum and tile are good floorings for boots, dripping umbrellas and soggy clothing.

The walls should be dressed too in good waterproof material. A self-adhesive vinyl material goes on easily. A knotty pine pattern is ideal for this purpose. Use it right over the door too. The advantage of the pattern besides its attractiveness is that it doesn't show fingerprints.

A combination coat rack and boot tray will keep coats out of the way and wet boots and rubbers off the floor. Make the unit yourself by constructing a coat-rack against the wall, using plywood or other suitable material. A cornice can lend a decorative note, and a shelf several inches off the floor from the bottom of the unit large enough to take the family's collection of boots and rubbers, will add to the utility of the coat-rack. The scalloped effect of a cornice may be cut out on a home saw, but these brackets may also be bought as is at local lumber yards.

When the rack is assembled, line the interior and the bottom of the boot tray with a red gingham design self-adhesive vinyl. Paint the cornice and frame white, outlining the scallop in red. Put black metal coat hooks at the back or the rack. A small mirror could be used in this area also if strategically placed.

A simple square stand of wood or metal may be covered in the same red gingham pattern to be used for umbrellas. The door frame may be perked up with red gingham vinyl, a nice contrast to the knotty pine vinyl.

If a lamp is used in this area, its shade could be decorated with a border of the gingham. An old table could be covered with the pine patterned vinyl to further coordinate the space that should prove worth all the effort you put into making it attractive.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: We are planning to add a room to our house. My husband is very handy, but is not an expert on such things and we have hired a man to help him, especially with the planning. This man says he will work out the construction on a program which he calls Modular Coordination. He seems to know what he is talking about, but we want to be sure. Can you advise us?

ANSWER: We can't give you any advice about whether or not to hire this man, because we haven't any idea as to his competence. This is something you certainly should have checked before making any arrangement with him.

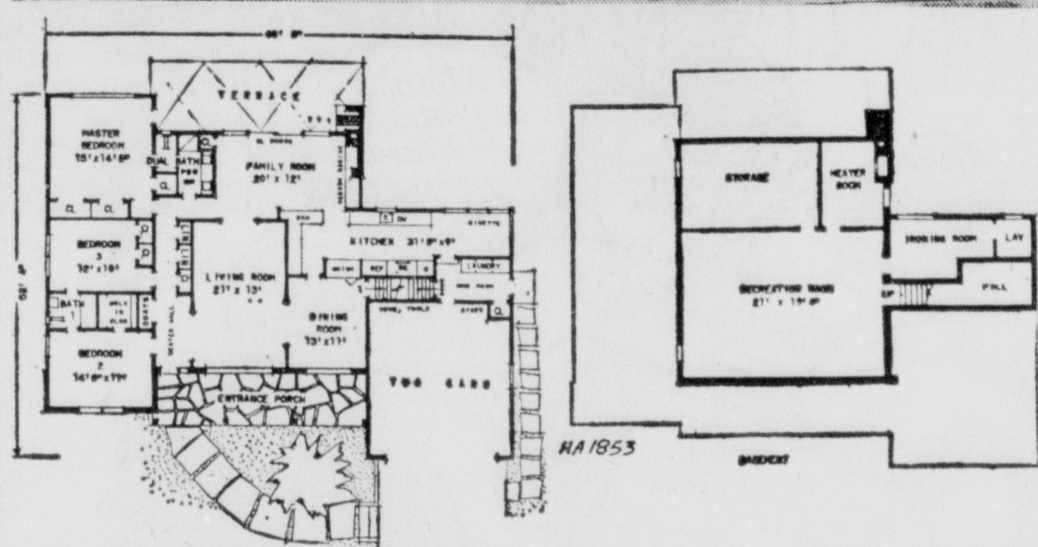

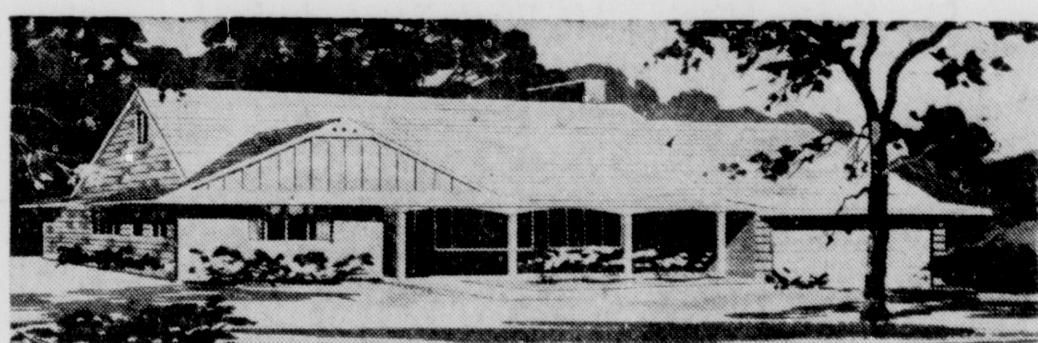

However, we can tell you this. There is such a thing as Modular Coordination and, if used properly, it will save you time and money. It's merely a fancy name for a system of construction which calls for the use of standard-sized materials, thus saving on cutting and fitting.

The standard measurement for Modular Construction usually is 4 inches. All materials are bought and used in multiples of 4 inches. Manufacturers make many of their products in these dimensions and there is a great saving in the cutting of wood, brick, cinder block, etc. Room heights and widths are planned to take advantage of these standard-sized materials.

Before any work is done, be sure to check local regulations to determine whether a permit or other certificate is needed to make an addition to your house.

QUESTION: We have a two-family brick house about 50 years old. The roof of the house is tarred and is a modified peak shape. Several years ago my husband insulated the attic. This has helped to relieve the heat somewhat in the second floor apartment, but is not entirely satisfactory. Would some kind of exhaust fan help and where should it be placed? The house has two small grills on each side.

ANSWER: Yes, an exhaust fan would help considerably to keep the second floor cooler during the summer. Since you call it a two-family house, I assume the attic is above the second floor. If this is so, the exhaust fan should be installed in the ceiling of the upstairs apartment or what actually is the floor of the attic. If by a two-family house, you mean that the attic itself has been converted into an apartment, then the exhaust fan should be placed in the attic ceiling. It will pull warm air out of the apartment into the space above and send it out of the house through the louvers. The fan can be installed by someone who is adept at projects of that nature, but otherwise will require professional handling, whether the fan is to be installed by your husband or a professional be sure that a check is first made to determine whether the louvers are large enough to permit sufficient air to escape.

SMART HOME FOR A FAMILY — Entrance to this luxury house is across a sheltered flagstone porch. The house, with its three bedrooms, family room facing a back terrace and basement recreation room, is meant for a family. It has 2,005 square feet of living area, Plan HA1853 was designed by Lester Cohen, Room 75, 117 W. 48th St., New York 36, N. Y.

Homes Built In 1946 Boom Celebrating 15th Birthdays

More than a half-million homes built during the first wave of the post-war building boom in 1946 will be 15 years old this year.

If your house is one of these, you'd be wise to celebrate its 15th birthday by giving it a complete, roof-to-basement examination.

Improvements in materials during the past decade and a half offer the possibility of keeping a house up to date in appearance and design.

The roof is a case in point. Fifteen years ago, practically all roofing materials were dark in color. Since that time, new manufacturing technology has given birth to asphalt shingles in a host of lighter colors that have become a distinguishing feature of contemporary design.

White, silver-gray, and pastels of all basic hues are favorite modern choices. In addition to their decorative aspects, they reflect much of the sun's heat, making any house more comfortable in summer.

Most well-known color stylists agree that the roof's importance to the general appearance of a house is paramount, since the roof color is the key to choosing other exterior colors for siding, trim, and accents.

Reroofing a house of the immediate postwar years before the original roof has worn out offers the added advantage of preventing interior damage that might occur if a new roof were delayed until the old one has actually begun to leak.

A new roof of asphalt shingles probably costs less than you think. Asphalt shingles are low in applied cost, and can be put in place quickly by a reliable roofer. Usually, they can be applied directly over the old roofing material.

The technique of applying asphalt shingles over an old roof eases, simplifies, and speeds up reroofing. The cost of removing the old material is eliminated, and there's no mess to clutter grounds or to clean up. In the event a sudden storm interrupts application of the new roof, the old material gives some protection until work can be resumed.

A new roof of asphalt shingles qualifies for a low-interest FHA-insured home improvement loan.

If You Want It To Last, Winterize Your Power Mower

There are a great many things that you can do to prepare your power mower for winter storage, but only a few that you must do.

A clogged fuel line and rust are the two enemies of your mower if it is not properly stored over the winter. So everything you do should be aimed at combating these dangers.

Drain Gas
Gasoline should be completely drained from tank, carburetor and fuel line. If left in, much of it will evaporate, leaving behind a gummy substance that will make starting the engine difficult at best.

If the tank is almost empty you can run the mower dry. Just start it and let it run until it stops by itself.

Some tanks can be disconnected and drained. There also may be a screw at the base of the carburetor for the purpose of draining it. Check the owner's manual for your mower.

Preventing rust is simply a matter of cleaning and lubricating. Brush away all grass clippings. Grass tends to wind itself around the shaft on reel type mowers. Clippings cake up on the underside of a rotary mower.

A mixture of grass, dirt and carbon will need scraping. Blade edges often pick up an accumulation of hardened dirt.

With an oil-soaked rag wipe all metal parts. Grease should be applied to the cutting edge of the blade.

Lubricate Engine

Lubricating the inside of the engine is accomplished by removing the spark plug and pouring a spoonful of clean oil into the opening. Turn the engine over several times (do this by turning the flywheel) to distribute oil on cylinder walls. Then replace the spark plug.

Wrap the mower base and engine in heavy paper, canvas or an old blanket. Do not leave the wheels in direct contact with a concrete floor. A couple of two-by-fours should be placed under the wheels.

Remove Excess Oil
The excess oil from the cylinder by removing the plug and spinning the crankshaft by pulling on the starter cord.

These are things you must do. In addition you may want to sharpen the blade, replace the spark plug and clean out the air filter. Doing these things now will save time next spring, but are not necessary for proper cold weather storage.

Preparations for proper storage do not take long and can extend the life of your mower many seasons. If a lawn mower deteriorates, it does so in the winter when it is not in use, more easily than in the summer when it is being used several times a week.

Here Are Some Tips on Use of Hand Tools

You may think that hand tools have gone out of style, what with all the talk about power tools these days.

But if you're a home handyman, even one lucky enough to have a workshop filled with power machines, you know how often nothing will do the job properly except a screwdriver or wrench or hammer or any one of half a dozen of the still-necessary hand tools.

To make your tasks a little easier, here are some tips on the use of hand tools, some of which you may know and some of which usually are known and used only by the professionals:

A wrench should be pulled towards you, not pushed away from you. Never place a length of pipe over the handle to give you more leverage unless you want to risk breaking the wrench and possibly injuring yourself. In using a pipe wrench, be sure the pipe is gripped at the center of the jaws.

If you use a screwdriver for much heavy work, place a rubber crutch tip (sold in hardware stores) over the handle to avoid blisters on your hands. Don't use soap as a screw lubricant, since it may rust the material into which it is driven. Use graphite or paraffin or one of the lubricants made especially for this purpose.

In sawing wood, use pressure only on the down strokes with the exception of the first cut, which is made with short upstrokes near the heel of the saw.

Wood House Judged One Of Best In '61

The Elliott Erwit family of Hastings-On-Hudson, N. Y., feel their new home is a prize. So do the editors of Architectural Record, a professional magazine. They judged it to be one of 1961's top 20 custom-built homes.

Erwit is a professional photographer whose work often appears in Life and other top magazines.

Designed by architect Roy S. Johnson of Tarrytown, N.Y., the Erwit home features the extensive use of wood, including ponderosa pine. Asked why, architect Johnson explained:

"I've always liked and used wood, but it seemed particularly appropriate for the Erwit home, which is large and informal and set on a rocky, wooded slope. One reason I used wood as well as natural stone was to help integrate the home with the site. And, of course, wood is such a warm and flexible material to work with."

Johnson pointed out that windows, molding, all exterior and interior doors, including louver doors, are of ponderosa pine and are stock building material items. "Since these were available pre-made in a variety of sizes and styles and were of excellent quality, I saw no reason to turn to costly custom-made units."

Johnson added that he prefers to use wood, both inside and outside a house, as close to its natural state as possible.

"Whenever I can," Johnson said, "I specify the use of a natural finish with water-repellent and preservative properties to bring out the natural beauty of wood's grain, color and texture. Why cover this up with some other material?"

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK — It had to happen. A thousand enthusiasts cheered a proposal here that Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg become the first Jewish candidate for the presidency of the United States.

Most of those who cheered were as Irish as a garland of shamrock hung on a shillelagh. They were the delegates to Mike Quill's Transport Workers Union convention. The roar for Goldberg's candidacy came after Quill had unleashed a confetti-raining, tape-flowing, placard-waving clamor for the drafting of Mr. Goldberg to run against Nelson Rockefeller for governor of New York in 1962.

The demonstration to convince John Kennedy's closest home front adviser to set up residence in New York ran on and on until Quill gavelled down the shouting, stomping crowd. Goldberg then went into his formal talk.

The suggestion that he someday run for the presidency came an hour later after one of the most unique performances put on by a speaker in all the years this reporter has been covering the breaking news.

AFTER SPEAKING for some 45 minutes, Goldberg opened himself up to sharp questioning by the delegates right from the floor—unrehearsed and as spontaneous as a forest fire.

Furthermore, it was Goldberg's suggestion that there be this unprecedented questioning. When Mike Quill telephoned him early Monday for final arrangements, the labor secretary told the Transport Union president he would like such an open forum.

This, apparently, is part of the White House's new technique of putting the New Frontier show on the road leading to the people wherever they are gathered.

At the end of the questioning, one TWU leader arose with the final query:

"Would you reconsider," the delegate asked the labor secretary who had been recognizing each questioner by calling him "brother," "moving to New York and running for governor in '62?" "Then in 1968, when John Kennedy has finished his terms in the White House, you can be the first man to be nominated as a man of the Jewish faith and to be elected."

UP WENT THE ROAR again. Goldberg told the convention that he hoped it would really not push the national labor party it had launched during its session. But if it did, he hoped it would accept another Democratic nominee and that he would be happy to come in and campaign for him.

It was, to this observer, one of those moments which should be part of recorded history.

There was other significance amid the tumult. These men were cheering Goldberg because as their lawyer through the years he had hammered out many a win for them.

They did not cheer him, however, as a representative of the government, though they were pleased that a Cabinet member would come and run a 90-minute town hall for them.

They found themselves opposed to him on many issues. They are for socialization of the railroads and airlines. Goldberg told them that where governments owned such means of transportation, the employees were usually worse off.

THEY ARE for a national labor party. Goldberg told them this, in effect, was futile and their place was in the Democratic party.

They are critical of John Kennedy. Goldberg told them that the President had rolled up "the greatest record since Franklin Roosevelt's first 100 days."

Their leader is for the readmission of Jim Hoffa's Teamsters to the AFL-CIO. Goldberg indicated how little he thought of Hoffa.

In spite of this a few minutes later Quill went before TV cameras and twice again called Hoffa the "cleanest man in the U.S." and then consulted with other TWU leaders on inviting Hoffa to the conclave.

When this reporter asked him if he would urge his union to join

Hoffa's Conference for Transportation Unity, Quill said certainly. Quill added he would be for joining Hoffa in a national parley of all transport unions, which have members who work on the land, on the sea, in the air and on rockets and moon bases too. I never let Quill's quips and make-believe buffoonery obscure the seriousness of his strategy.

SHOULD QUILL join with the Teamsters, the Transport Workers Union chief would bring into Hoffa's combine some 150,000 TWU members in public utilities, universities, Cape Canaveral operations, key railroads, workers on some 17 airlines, drivers of buses and trolleys and subway trains in the nation's biggest, most congested communities.

When reminded that this would please neither Mr. Goldberg nor the White House, Mr. Quill said: "We are not the servants of the Kennedys."

Even as Quill uttered these words, Goldberg was on his way over to a National Association of Manufacturers lunch to tell them that we are in the greatest era of industrial peace — and while he was driving over, scores of thousands of men were striking on the Pacific Coast, at Ford, and all along the line right on up to our radar warning systems.

For the moment Mr. Goldberg had only the cheers for his personal popularity to comfort him. (The Hall Syndicate, Inc.) 6 pt

Group Will Visit Lisbon Homestead

A tour of the Clement Vallandigham homestead and the Old Stone House at Lisbon will be taken by the Tri-State Civil War Roundtable Wednesday night.

Vallandigham, a native of Lisbon who was leader of the "Peace Democrats" during the Civil War, was exiled to the South by President Lincoln in 1863 after a speech critical of the war and abuse of constitutional rights.

The homestead, located ironically on Lincoln Way, is 150 years old.

Members of the roundtable will meet at the Carnegie Library at East Liverpool at 7 or at the Vallandigham home at 7:30.

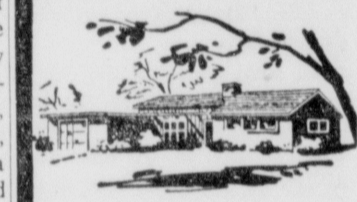

The tour of the Old Stone House will be conducted afterward by Ross Fox, president of the Lisbon Historical Society.

The meeting of the roundtable had been scheduled Tuesday night but arrangements for the tour could be made only for Wednesday, Glenn Waight, program chairman, explained.

The Bliss Plant Tragedies

"... may we therefore again repeat, with persuasive firmness, that each of you must maintain a constantly alert attitude in thinking safety without a letdown. The moment you relax either in the form of violating safety rules or pipe-dreaming, this is when injuries happen."

This is an excerpt from a recent letter concerning plant safety to all employees of the E. W. Bliss Co. from George Perrault, Jr., vice president, as the result of two shop fatalities this year. A third has occurred, with the death Saturday of Seymour Wyatt, Sr. Alton Fenton and Wilbur Vignon were killed earlier.

The Bliss Company management knows it won't win any safety awards this year but that in itself isn't too important, although it often reflects a good over-all safety program. Ironically, Bliss does more "preaching" for the cause of safety than many industries. It knows that the risks generally are greater in its heavy machinery activity.

The sobering effects of the tragedies have caused company officials to make a re-evaluation of their safety program but personnel department files show that since 1955, for example, frequent safety meetings have been held and directives issued to alert workers to obvious hazards.

What Bliss and other large industries here would like to stress is that safety almost becomes a personal responsibility when a workman picks up his tools. Alertness to everyday dangers is as essential as the dinner bucket.

The coroner's "accidental death" verdict does not bring back loved ones but it should serve to remind us all that eternity sometimes is only one mistake away. To be "fatalistic" in our thinking is to invite disaster.

Willingness to Pay the Price

College officials say they don't know why half the young men and women who start to college drop out along the way.

"We have been writing and talking about this for 40 years," said Blanchard L. Rideout of Cornell University in a speech to the American Council on Education, when it held its annual meeting in Washington last week, and we still do not have the answer."

The obvious reasons for dropping out of college cannot account for the high rate of falling by the wayside. Some students can't hold the academic pace. Some run into money difficulties they can't surmount. Some lose their health.

But what about all the others? What accounts for the ones who say they are bored, the students who decide to ditch it because they get married, the ones who never give college an honest try and finally are asked to leave?

In an era when there is universal agreement on the importance of a college education in terms of lifetime earning power and lifetime satisfaction, why do half of the young men and women lucky enough to start to college fail to finish?

That proportion, incidentally, does not hold true in all colleges and universities. Institutions that screen students closely before they are allowed to enter college have relatively few dropouts. Usually, they are caused by health or money. It is chiefly in institutions which do not practice advance screening that mass dropouts occur.

And that is where the answer is to be found.

Students screened in advance must show they possess a strong sense of purpose. They must prove by their own previous performance that they are willing to pay the price of being educated; that they are willing to put education first and other things second. It's that simple.

An applicant who never has done anything of note in high school doesn't have a chance to make the grade in a college or university that aims to graduate all but a handful of the freshmen students it accepted.

Joy In Mudtown!

It wasn't money that brought Casey Stengel back to big league baseball as manager of the New York Mets, the National League's new club in New York City.

It wasn't money that enticed George Weiss, who was let go by the New York Yankees at the same time Stengel was told he was too old.

It was pride. Stengel and Weiss, both retired because of their advanced age (Stengel is 71, Weiss 65), are coming back into the ball game as field manager and general manager, respectively, because they love baseball and resent having been told they were too old to keep on doing what they had been doing all their lives.

We have no idea what the New York Mets will do in next year's National League race. It probably won't be anything like the success Stengel and Weiss were accustomed to with the fabulous New York Yankees.

But we have an idea what it means to them and to millions of Americans under and not too far over 65. There is joy in Mudtown!

She Keeps Hitting Me With That, Judge!

DiSalle's Seminars

By DUANE E. CROFT
Brush-Moore Special Writer

Looking back on Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's recent seminars for newsmen on state financing, one conclusion stands out above all others from the mass of facts and figures, charts and diagrams:

It's a mistake to try to separate such things from the realm of politics.

The cry for "nonpolitical" discussions, studies and reports on Ohio's money problems is a continuing one.

It comes from the politicians themselves who, being human, sometimes weary of their front-line battles in the halls of government.

And it comes from their constituents who, as individuals, flounder in seas of confusion over which side is telling the truth or, as members of organized pressure groups, find themselves allied against the side that happens to be in the political majority at the time.

But it is doubtful that any discussion, study or report on state financing could be really "nonpolitical." That's so whether the research took the form of a concentrated briefing—like the governor's seminars—or a protracted investigation directed by the Legislative Service Commission—as has been proposed by Republican leaders of the Ohio General Assembly.

The reason is that 15 people (or any other number) looking at the same set of facts and figures can come up with 15 different ideas on what they mean in terms of desirable political action.

Examples Cited
A couple of random examples from Gov. DiSalle's seminars illustrate the point:

It's a fact that while the dollar cost of the state school subsidy program climbed phenomenally, the state's share of the total cost of public education dropped from 46.4 per cent in 1948 to 33.3 per cent in 1960. This means local taxpayers have been picking up a bigger part of the tab through their votes on levies.

Is that bad? Many people—the governor and educators included—think so. They argue that many Ohio boys and girls still are not getting good enough training to serve them or their society in the future, that local taxpayers are burdened enough and that the state has an obligation to raise its ante.

But many other people believe it's a good trend, reflecting strong local control of public programs and an increasing awareness by the citizenry of its collective responsibilities.

It's a fact that the state universities derive only about one-third of their income from taxes. The rest is supplied by student fees, gifts and relatively small federal grants.

Is that bad? Many people—the governor and university officials included—believe so. They contend students are tapped for more than they should be in an "equal opportunity" program and that the universities are nearing the limit of the burden they can carry by their own devices.

But many other people see nothing derelict in a political philosophy that demands a two-thirds contribution from the individual who wants to enjoy the benefits of a college education. And they challenge the wisdom of making it physically and financially possible for every child to go to college whether he's equipped for it or not.

The same sort of divergence between fact and conclusion can be found in virtually every phase of Ohio's $1 billion-a-year government.

The figures may be cold and unchallengeable (even that is not always true in government financing), but opinions on what they mean are always subject to challenge and the challenging process can get mighty heated.

That's politics. It's the process of making decisions through the political medium of the ballot box.

The governor's seminars were valuable as "background" because he and his top administrators did a highly creditable job of presenting the facts and figures. Argument Unsolved

But the seminars did not solve the political argument that has been raging in Ohio for these last several years and will range for many more to come.

It would have been impossible for the governor to keep attempts at political persuasion out of his seminars. It's equally impossible for his opponents to avoid attempts at counteracting his persuasive efforts.

That's the way they strive for the "truth" in the argument—the majority decision of the electorate on which side is right.

The greatest disservice in this process is done by the people who attempt to shirk their citizenship's responsibility by demanding that the subject be "taken out of politics."

Aid to Education

By DAVID LAWRENCE

More Funds, Better Teachers Needed

Loud are the laments from different groups throughout the country that Congress failed to provide the billions of dollars advocated by President Kennedy for federal aid to education.

The President is blamed for lack of aggressive leadership or for compromising with opponents or for inept handling of the legislation by his own party.

Factionalism in Congress itself is blamed for the use of various parliamentary procedures to block passage. The religious issue is blamed as a disruptive influence. Opponents of federal subsidies are blamed.

Also, many who harbored doubts about loading the Treasury with an annual commitment for any field as big as education have gladly accepted some of the responsibility for the defeat of the measure.

But the sad fact remains that education in America is in need of more funds — better teachers and better buildings.

Whether all the states need federal aid or some of them can do the job themselves may be debated. Because of the varying conditions throughout the country, the average man finds it difficult to get a clear idea of just what ought or ought not to be done by the federal government.

The most recent excuse for federal aid is national defense. What is done in the Soviet Union is being held up constantly as something to be paralleled. Much money is evidently spent there for training engineers and technicians.

On the theory that Soviet Russia is a potential enemy, the argument is made by spokesmen for educational organizations that to give a better education to American citizens is somehow wrapped up in national defense. It's a convenient device in politics. So measures that are designed to help education are put into bills given such names as the National Defense Education Act.

THE TROUBLE with such a broad classification is that it runs into the religious issue. Higher institutions which need laboratories for scientists or scholarships for talented students in economic or scientific fields have been awarded federal money irrespective of whether those same institutions are operated by churches. The Kennedy administration says this is constitutional.

What is hard to understand, however, is why, if a Catholic boy is supposed subsequently to enlist and defend his country in war, he should be helped in his education at the elementary-school level only if he keeps out of a parochial school.

He must give up the religious education he wants in order to get the benefits of federal money granted to public elementary schools. This is widely criticized as reducing the doctrine of separation of church and state to an absurdity.

Literally, the Constitution says that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion."

Some argue that this means no law should ever be passed that deals with any religious institution in any respect whatsoever. If this be true, then the abili of national defense is ineffectual and no money can constitutionally be appropriated by Congress for higher institutions or elementary schools or anything else if they have the slightest connection with a church.

THERE ARE some passages in Supreme Court decisions which cast doubt on this doctrine. Each side quotes the passages that seem to support its own view. The truth is that the decisions are not clear.

The Supreme Court of the United States has never, for instance, ruled that a federal loan to help a church construct a school building is unconstitutional or that a federal loan covering a mortgage on a home for a Catholic citizen is unconstitutional when he engages a private tutor to come to that same home to teach his children the Catholic religion.

Obviously there is need for a clear-cut ruling by the Supreme Court of the United States which will remove all legal doubt as to whether any federal money can be used, directly or indirectly, for any college, high school or elementary school run by a church or whether federal funds may be used for any and all educational purposes except the actual teaching of a religious creed.

It can certainly decide whether federal money can be withheld from institutions that do teach religion in their school buildings even though the money obtained from the federal government is intended, not for the propagation of any religious beliefs, but just for such inanimate objects as brick and mortar and perhaps even for physical facilities to insure good health for American children in congested school areas.

IF CONGRESS would leave it to the courts to decide the extent to which the teaching of religion bars the use of state or federal funds for a college or high school or elementary school that isn't under public control, then the passage — on its merits — of an all-inclusive bill to foster education in America could be made easier.

There is nothing in the rulebook that says members of Congress must possess the legal background of court justices to enable them to resolve constitutional questions before voting for legislation.

A Visible Hero

By TRUMAN TWILL

This is the nostalgic bleeder I write each October about football. Not the kind the boys play now but the kind the boys played when I was boyish.

My alma maters, as far as I can tell by the scores, are still playing their football the same way—strictly amateur. But even amateurs are systematic about the game now.

It is no longer an ordeal for heroes but a demonstration of organization. I'm never-endingly glad I lived at a time when anyone who played football was suspected of being thick in the head. It was my only asset.

We used to prove head-thickness by taking off our padded hats in the thick of the battle and throwing them to the sidelines. This signified that the time had come to separate the men from the boys. The crowd would cheer.

Crowd? What crowd? Spectators in those disorganized and noncommercial days stood on the sidelines. The quarterback had to wave them back if he intended to call a play in their direction.

The ball was spotted where it came to rest, and this might be one foot from the sideline. It wasn't unusual for the center to be the only player on one side of a sideline play. All other players would be on the other side.

Exhortation was personal. There was old Doc Hall, who had two sons on our team, Bob and Frank. Old Doc followed the ball up and down the field, telling his siblings what to do.

And this modern thing about spotters up in the stands telephoning observations to the bench... we not only had no telephones; we had no stands. We didn't even have an assistant coach.

No one in our part of the country had heard of de-emphasizing football because it never had been emphasized, though even then rumors were beginning to be heard about outstanding players elsewhere who suddenly had acquired attributes for "higher education."

The rest of us played football for fun.

Some of us—many of us—had no qualifications but desire. That was the way it was, then. You had to be thick in the head to get knocked around, and the smart boys avoided it.

To this day people of that era believe football players are thick in the head, unless there is proof to the contrary. The fact is, of course, that football players now tend to be as sharp as anyone else, except in non-nonsense schools where the payoff is for football ability and no one bothers about academic standing.

I'm glad I was born too soon to be barred for lack of know-how and size, because it gave me some of the best recollections I possess.

There are times during a football game when I can imagine myself in the thick of it, headgear cast aside, a visible hero. Then I see the telephoning, the assistant coaches and the "messengers" carrying in the plays and realize they wouldn't even let me put on a suit to hold down one end of the bench.

The era when all you needed was a thick head and a bellful of desire is gone, blessedly so. But it was golden while it lasted, never forget that.

would affect the profit-sharing plan.

Edward L. Cushman, AMC vice president, also declined to comment on how the profit-sharing plan would be affected.

It appears that AMC may have rough sailing ahead. Local 72 with 11,500 members is the largest AMC local. Jack Beni, local president, said Sunday night "this contract will never be passed through this local."

There was a report that the margin was less than 100 votes, and that only about one-fourth of the local's members had voted.

The profit-sharing proposal was not the major stumbling block, according to the report. Objections apparently centered on the elimination of a five-minute washup period and changes in the seniority system.

The profit-sharing plan provides that the workers would get 10 per cent of the profits in cash and five per cent in stocks, after the company had deducted 10 per cent of its net worth for stockholders.

Neither UAW President Walter P. Reuther nor Ford's vice president for labor relations, Malcolm L. Denise, would speculate on how soon the Ford strike will end. The strike erupted after negotiations bogged down at both the national and local levels on working conditions. Agreement had been reached on a wage and benefit package patterned after the GM settlement last month.

Court Refuses To Reconsider Red Party Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to reconsider its June 5 decision that the Communist party must register as an arm of the Soviet Union.

In its petition for reconsideration, the party said the court's decision destroyed the protection of the Constitution's First Amendment and opened the way for Congress to "outlaw any dissident political group simply by making opprobrious findings."

Justice Frankfurter, author of the court's June 5 opinion, on June 20 granted a stay of effectiveness of the decision until the tribunal acted on the petition for reconsideration. If the stay had not been granted, the court's mandate for enforcement of the decision would have been issued June 30.

Communist party officials declared after the June 5 decision that they did not plan to register. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy then announced proceedings against the party would be under way by Aug. 9, but Frankfurter's stay required deferment of action.

point out that despite court convictions of several Hoffa aides he himself has emerged unscathed from a barrage of charges.

Joseph A. Curran, president of the National Maritime Union and a federation vice president, and Michael J. Quill, head of the Transport Workers Union, are leaders of the pro-Hoffa group.

Still other AFL-CIO unions are equally insistent that not only should the doors be kept shut against Hoffa but a rival union should be established to try to woo Teamsters members away from him.

Among those seeking formation of a new AFL-CIO Teamsters organization are Presidents James B. Carey of the International Union of Electrical Workers and Joseph A. Beirne of the Communications Workers.

The Teamsters were ousted in 1957 after extensive corruption disclosures by the Senate rackets investigating committee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

Since then, the Teamsters and the federation have gone their separate ways in a sort of armed truce. Considerable cooperation continues however between AFL-CIO unions and the Teamsters on state and local levels.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, recently has been extending active encouragement to a few scattered Teamsters locals that bolted from Hoffa's union.

Family 'Chipper' After Week In Fallout Shelter

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — A Long Island couple and their two small sons are "fit and chipper" after almost a week in a fallout shelter.

The parents called the test "highly successful."

The family emerged Sunday from an above-ground shelter where they spent 151 hours in a test sponsored by the Nassau County Civil Defense Commission.

A spokesman for the Roosevelt Field shopping center, where the shelter was set up, estimated that 40,000 persons witnessed the family's experiment. Many talked with the family through a microphone set up for that purpose.

The shelter had a picture window through which the family could see and be seen.

The family consists of Martin Kreesse, 28, a self-employed electrician; his wife, Judith, 25; Robert, 5, and Martin, 3. They returned to their home in nearby East Northport soon after they left the shelter.

Mrs. Kreesse said they felt "fit and chipper."

Her husband said the confinement meant a "much needed rest." He said home cooking was what he missed most.

The family subsisted on canned and concentrated foods — mostly soups, fruits, vegetables and meats — during their stay in the 16x17-foot cylindrical shelter, a converted 5,000-gallon oil tank.

They had a hot plate for cooking and a radio, telephone, books and magazines. There was a shade on the picture window, for privacy when wanted. The children ate a lot of peanut butter and jelly and crackers.

The parents said their 250-gallon water tank, air pump and sanitary facilities worked well.

The children played with toys much of the time, while the parents read.

A hot shower bath was the thing that all wanted most at the end, Mrs. Kreesse said.

Walgren, himself divorced and now engaged to another woman, said he never had any intention of marrying the nurse.

Investigators said the physician made several trips to California while Mary Boehme was there. Dr. Boehme said his relationship with Mary Boehme was that of a doctor and a patient.

Ex-Browns Stars Perform At Game

CLEVELAND (AP)—There were no marching bands at Sunday's Washington Redskins - Cleveland Browns football game—but no one missed them at the half-time show.

Back from the pages of history came the best of the Browns—the famed stars of both the All-American Conference and the National Football League—for another fleeting moment in the spotlight.

The crowd of 46,186 cheered itself hoarse as the oldsters, from Tiny Cliff (Rivet) Lewis to 345-pound Chubby Grigg, put on a touch-football exhibition and ran through some of the most famous plays in the Browns' illustrious past.

Lewis was the first string quarterback for the Browns. Grigg was the biggest player—at 290. Getting the greatest hand were Otto Graham and Dante Lavelli, probably the most fantastic aerial act in pro football history.

Also on hand were Don Jones, Don Paul, Marion Motley, Bill Willis and a host of others who have etched their names deeply into the record books and the memory of decade-ago fans.

Ford Snaps Ruth's Record As Yanks Trample Reds 7-0

Pitches 32 Scoreless Innings In Series Play

By JERRY LISK
Associated Press Sports Writer
CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The wounded but relentless New York Yankees were 3 to 2 favorites to close out the World Series today with a decisive fourth victory over the desperate Cincinnati Reds, whose last-ditch hope was their lone series winner, strapping Joey Jay.

Jay's pitching opponent in this World Series contest, the last in ed to be as perfect as Sunday when New York's Whitey Ford surpassed Babe Ruth's 43-year-old series record for consecutive scoreless pitching innings and a bevy of other Yankees got into the act in a monotonous 7-0 shut-out of the Reds. Ford now has pitched 32 runless innings, topping Ruth's old mark of 29 2-3.

If Jay should duplicate his Yankee Stadium victory the series would return to New York for a sixth game Wednesday and possibly a seventh game Thursday.

Mantle Injured
In perhaps an ironical coincidence, the series ended for Mickey Mantle and may have been decided against the Reds in the fourth inning Sunday when the ailing Yankee star stroked a screaming hit to deep left center. That set up the first Yankee run and the only one they really needed to scuttle Cincy starter Jim O'Toole.

Mantle had to leave the game after his hit, a certain two-bagger under normal conditions. It sent home run king Roger Maris, who had walked, to third, from where he scored on a double play.

Mantle now is out of the series, no matter if it goes the seven-game limit. The ugly wound on his hip where an abscess was removed 10 days ago has drastically hobbled the fleet slugger. The wound was bleeding badly when Mantle was removed for a pinch-runner following his hit.

Besides Mantle, the Yankee sick bay treated Ford, whose right big toe was badly bruised by a foul as he batted in the sixth inning, and the peerless Yogi Berra, who was gashed above his right eye by his sunglasses when he made a fruitless try for a diving catch, also in the sixth inning.

Yankees 3-2 Favorites

While the Yankees are a 3 to 2 favorite to take what could be the series clincher today, the odds are 10 to 1 against the Reds making a comeback only three other clubs ever achieved in the series. Last to do it after being down 3-1 were the Yankees themselves, rallying to take the 1958 series from the Milwaukee Braves.

However, few of the 32,598 faithful fans who watched their "for real Reds" sag before the excellent pitching of Ford and Jim Coates, believed Fred Hutchinson's National League wonder team could now overtake the well-balanced Yankees.

Redleg pitching hasn't been too bad, although the Yankees clubbed O'Toole, Jim Brosnan and Bill Henry for 11 hits Sunday, but Cincinnati's own big guns have been almost completely spiked.

Coates Impressive
Ford allowed four hits in his six innings and Coates yielded only one in the three innings he worked after an emergency call from the bullpen. Ford's throbbing toe caused him to quit following Elio Chacon's inning-opening single in the sixth.

In the three previous games, the Reds had collected only 19 hits in 101 at bats. "Our big guys just aren't hitting," said Hutchinson. Yankee Manager Ralph Houk now is on the verge of being the third rookie pilot ever to win a World Series in his first year as a big league manager. Bucky Harris as Washington's "boy wonder" boss in 1924 beat the New York Giants. Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis Cardinals won in his first try in 1946 against the Boston Red Sox.

The financial phase of the tourney for the players ended Sunday, with a total player pool of $645,928.28. Of that amount, 70 per cent or $452,149.80 will be divided among the Yanks and Reds, with the remainder going to the second, third and fourth place teams in each league.

The winning pool is $271,289.88, about $8,000 per player for the series champion and approximately $5,200 for each player on the losing club, based on an unofficial allotment of 34 shares per team.

Bowling Green, winners of the 1959 Mid-American Conference crown and runner-up to Ohio U. last season, is making a strong bid to win it again this year. The Falcons have been unscathed upon in two loop games, defeating Western Michigan 21-0 Saturday and crushing Marshall 40-0 in their opener.

Miami, which has won more Mid-Am football titles than any other team, finally figured out how to score touchdowns. The Redskins had only been able to kick field goals in their first three games but ran over three TDs last week in their 21-0 conquest of Kent State.

In another big one, Xavier won the mythical Queen City championship, defeating cross-town rival Cincinnati 17-12.

Sophomores Sparkle In OSU Win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A band of talented sophomores took the spotlight in Saturday's Ohio college football action.

Ohio State turned loose a pair of heralded second-year men—Paul Warfield and Matt Snell—in the closing quarter to post its first victory of the season, 13-3 over UCLA.

Coach Woody Hayes, after showing 82,992 fans his Buckeyes knew some of the game's fancier frills, had to resort to line-smashing drives to score the important touchdowns.

All-America fullback Bob Ferguson, who a week ago toted the ball 35 times for 137 yards, was called on only 13 times Saturday and picked up 29 yards.

Snell was the big gainer for the Bucks with 72 yards on 11 tries, including a 33-yard dash over tackle for the second Ohio TD. Warfield, who scored first for Ohio State with a 13-yard burst over the same spot, gained 62 yards on 15 carries.

The real sophomore show occurred Saturday night at Akron where the Zips' 190-pound fullback, George Deo, smashed his way to four touchdowns as Akron rolled over Ohio Wesleyan 32-21.

Deo's performance upped his point production for the season to 42—just one point behind the state scoring leader, Alan Spiegelberg of Oberlin.

The versatile Oberlin junior racked up 14 points—one touchdown, two field goals and two extra points—in the Yeomen's 26-7 win over Carnegie Tech.

In third place in the tight statewide scoring race is Findlay's Ted Laneer with 40 points to his credit. The Troy freshman scored 10 points as the Oilers took over the lead in the Mid-Ohio League with a 22-0 win over Ohio Northern.

Another sophomore, Otterbein's Dave Kull of Worthington, tossed three touchdown passes as the Cardinals crushed Kenyon 35-0.

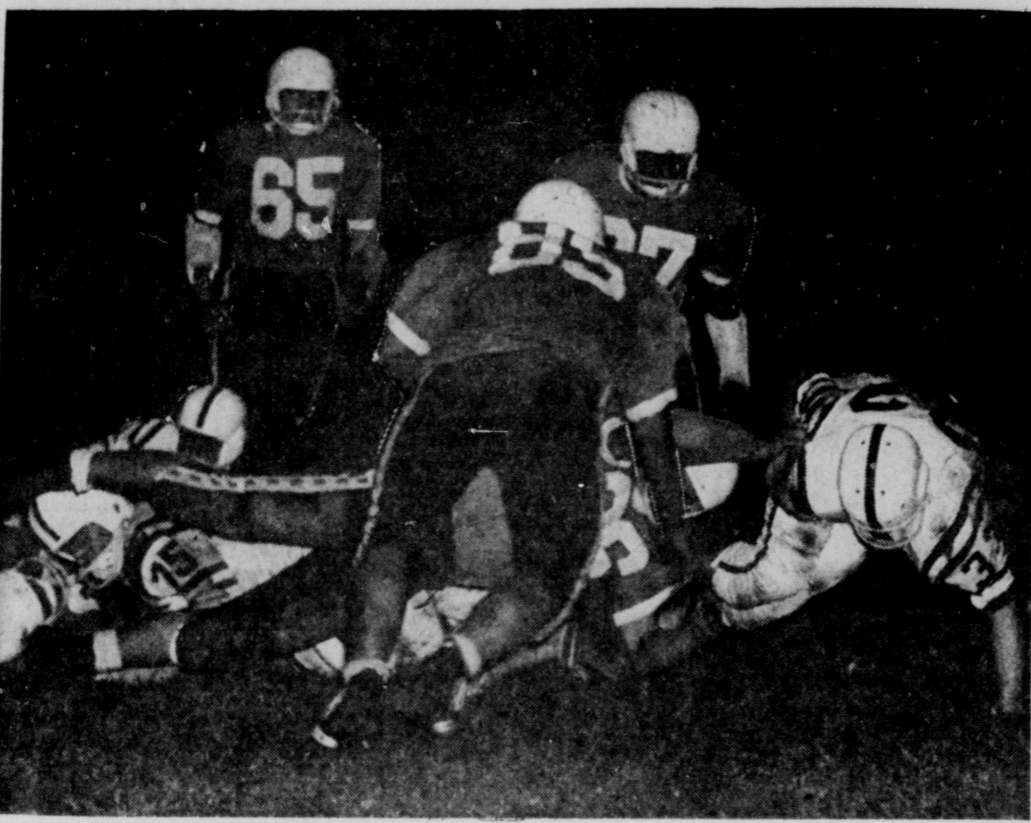

Otterbein shares the Ohio Conference lead with Wooster, Muskingum and Wittenberg. All posted loop victories Saturday to run their marks to 2-0.

Mitchell Steals Show As Browns Hand Redskins 12th Loss In Row

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bobby Mitchell, former Illinois great, stole the show Sunday when the Cleveland Browns handed the Washington Redskins their 12th straight National Football League defeat.

But some Ohio boys, who haven't been getting too much of a chance, also were outstanding in the 31-7 conquest.

Len Dawson, the former All-Ohio high school star from Alliance, got in for one play for the Browns. The classy quarterback threw a 17-yard pass to Ray Renfro for the final score.

George Izo, another all-state scholastic quarterback from Barberton, took over for Washington in the late going. He threw two passes, completing both for 31 yards; snapped a backward pass to a safety valve receiver while being tackled for another 16-yard gain, and had the 'Skins on the Browns' one-yard line as the game ended.

Fred Dugan, the former Dayton University end, was Washington's No. 1 receiver, catching seven passes for 120 yards; Lou Groza of Martins Ferry booted his seventh field goal in four games, and added three conversions to run his total to 29 for the Browns.

But Mitchell, who last week lost his job to freshman Tom Watkins, was the big star. He scored on a 52-yard pass from Milt Plum, on a 64-yard punt return and on a 31-yard jaunt around end. He caught the pass on the 20 while running so fast he was off balance. He fell on the 10 but kept right on rolling over the goal line while a Washington defender watched.

On the punt, he took the ball near the sideline and stood still for a couple of seconds as the 'Skins charged him. But the attackers slowed up, perhaps thinking Mitchell had signalled for a fair catch, and he stormed between them to pay dirt—aided by a couple of good blocks.

The end-skirting job was a beauty. Not a hand was laid on him by the enemy.

Coach Paul Brown was loud in his praise of Mitchell, and of defensive star Dave Lloyd, 248-pound linebacker from Georgia. Both re-

North Lima Rolls Over J-M 28-8

Senior fullback Bob Ackerman returned a kickoff 70 yards to break a 8-8 tie in the second period and send North Lima on to a 28-8 victory of Jackson-Milton at North Jackson Saturday afternoon.

Ron Weaver put the Zippers in front with a nine yard touchdown run in the first period, but the Blue Jays' Mike Woloschak evened it up in the early moments of the second frame on a seven yard run followed by a two point run for the extra points.

North Lima added a touchdown in both the third and fourth quarters as senior Ronnie Weaver went seven yards and Jones galloped 27 yards. A pass from Ackerman to McCarty added two extra points after the final TD.

The Zippers posted their second win in five outings, while Jackson-Milton is now 1-4.

North Lima will be at Western Reserve next Saturday, and Jackson-Milton will tangle with Canfield at Fitch Stadium, also Saturday.

Hornung Nets 33 Points As Green Bay Blasts Colts 45-7

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Versatile Paul Hornung, Green Bay's perpetual man-in-motion and a rarity among pro specialists with his triple threat abilities, is putting the power in the Packers' drive to retain their Western Conference title in the National Football League.

The 25-year-old former Notre Dame star had his best day in the play-for-pay ranks Sunday when he scored 33 points on four touchdowns, a field goal and six conversions in Green Bay's 45-7 romp over the Baltimore Colts.

The Green Bay victory, coupled with San Francisco's 35-0 thumping of Los Angeles, broke a four-way tie for first place in the Western sector and left the Packers and 49ers at the head of the class with 3-1 records.

Four teams remained tied for first in the East with 3-1 marks as Cleveland beat Washington 31-7 Philadelphia's league champion Eagles defeated Pittsburgh 21-16, New York whipped St. Louis 24-9 and Dallas downed Minnesota 28-0. Chicago moved up in the West by blasting Detroit 31-17.

Hornung broke Don Hutson's club record of 31 points set in 1945 by scoring on runs of 54, 1 and 10 yards, taking an eight-yard pitch from Bart Starr for another TD, kicking a 38-yard field goal and the half dozen extra points. The field goal sent the Packers in front to stay 10-7 in the second quarter.

49ers Overwhelm Rams
The 49ers again alternated passers John Brodie, Billy Kilmer and Bob Waters effectively in the shotgun offense to overwhelm the Rams (1-3). Kilmer scored twice on short runs while Waters passed 26 yards to R. C. Owens for one TD and tallied on a 4-yard burst.

Bobby Mitchell, who lost his starting job to rookie Tom Watkins, won it back with three long TD jaunts for the Browns, scoring on a 52-yard pass from Milt Plum, a 64-yard punt return and a 31-yard dash around end. The Redskins (0-4), losing their 12th in succession, scored on a six-yard pass from first-year quarterback Norm Snead to Tom Osborne.

A 17-yard TD flip from Sonny Jurgensen to Pete Retzlaff sent the Eagles ahead 10-7 against the Steelers (0-4) after an interference penalty gave them the ball on the 1-yard line. They scored the clincher in the final period, again after an interference penalty, when Jurgensen pitched a two-yard strike to Retzlaff. The key play, however, was Tim Brown's 84-yard run with a kickoff.

The Giants led 7-2 in the third period before braking it open against the Cardinals (2-2), when the defensive unit swarmed over St. Louis passer Sam Etcheverry and caused two fumbles. They led to a one-yard scoring plunge by Alex Webster and a 12-yard TD ramble by linebacker Sam Huff.

Dallas' Don Meredith tossed a 12-yard scoring aerial to Bill Howton and a 52-yarder to Frank Clarke, who also grabbed a 23-yard TD pass from Eddie LeBaron. It was the third straight loss for the fledgling Vikings (1-3).

Mike Ditka tied it 17-17 for the Bears (2-2) on a 37-yard pitch from Billy Wade, then set up the clincher on a 40-yard reception as Wade took it the final yard. The Lions (2-2) had tied it on a 100-yard kickoff return by rookie Pat Studstill.

Columbiana People Give $375 to Musicians

COLUMBIANA — Approximately $375 was collected by members of the Columbiana High School Band and Chorus Friday and Saturday.

The Chorus conducted a tag day drive at the Firestone Stadium during the Columbiana — Canfield game Friday. The band canvassed the community and solicited the shoppers on the Main St. Saturday. George Huk was in charge of the first activity of the Music Fund.

On Oct. 28th the committee will conduct a record hop at the Joshua Dixon School. Mrs. James Churchfield, and Mrs. Victor Knisely are in charge of the arrangements of the record hop.

The next meeting of the committee will be held Tuesday.

THE EASTERN STARS of Columbiana will meet at 6 p.m. Tuesday for a coverdinner.

The regular business meeting will follow at 8. A social hour will follow the business meeting. Members are asked to bring a coverdish and their own table service.

SAM CULP of 227 Pittsburgh St., Columbiana's oldest resident, celebrated his 101st birthday on Sunday.
